About DigitalMeeting

The hidden costs of travel time and expenses for company meetings and client support can seriously impact upon the profitability of every company.

How many times have you reflected on the wisdom of travelling 100 miles to undertake a 30 minute presentation?

How often have you been held up in traffic with the dawning realisation that the urgent deadline you need to meet will now require you to work late into the night?

Have you worked out how much company time is eroded by your staff travelling from multiple offices for the weekly meeting?

DigitalMeeting negates the need for all of this and offers an inexpensive, tested and effective way of conducting meetings using a unique audio and video web package.

Without the need for buying any extra hardware or software it allows you to hold meetings across any standard phone line whilst also giving all participants access to any computer files that are relevant to the meeting.

So you can present yourself to new customers even if they are at the other end of the country.

As a senior management team you can collaboratively formulate a major proposal without needing to find large amounts of diary space to incorporate travel time.

You can offer outstanding customer service by giving clients the opportunity to input on work in progress (and shorten your time to billing in the process!)

We are confident that we can demonstrate an immediate return on investment at our first meeting with you but we do not believe that this should be the extent of our support.

About DigitalMeeting

Don't just take our word for it

"I have been delighted with DigitalMeeting's ease of use and the speed with which collaborative meetings can be setup. DigitalMeeting has helped me to improve the qualification of potential customers prior to a face-to-face meeting, saving valuable time and money."

Oliver Bayliss - Director

<http://www.businesspartnersinternational.ltd.uk>

"As an International business, doing business in the major international centres, we have found DigitalMeeting to be an invaluable tool. Ease of use was important and the support of the team at DigitalMeeting is much appreciated"

Robert Engelshus - Director UK

<http://www.devoteam.com>

"DigitalMeeting has improved communications with our clients, particularly those from overseas or who live and work some distance away from our offices. Using DigitalMeeting we can host conferences with clients, barristers and experts. The system does not require huge investment and its beauty is its simplicity."

Tim Bishop - Director

<http://www.bishopslaw.co.uk>

"DigitalMeeting is a core business system for us. As an online services provider, our clients are spread across the country, as are our partners and our own team, so having easy access to an effective online meeting platform is essential to how we work. The pay-as-you-use pricing keeps the costs clear and avoids building unnecessary overheads into the business."
