DigitalMeeting for Architects

Designing the future...

Without a doubt the greatest challenge for architects is being able to walk potential partners or customers through a demonstration of their designs when they are geographically distant in the UK or indeed located across the other side of the globe.

There is no alternative of course to spending time, money and travel expenses in actually travelling to their sites or offices .

Or is there?

If we were able to offer you an inexpensive, tested and simple alternative would you would be interested?

DigitalMeeting provides a unique audio video web package which gives you the opportunity to share and discuss information in a totally secure environment and regardless of whether the participants in that meeting are at work or at home, in the UK or abroad.

If you need to share computer files collaboratively you can do so – whether this is a CAD drawing, PowerPoint presentation, presenting the commercial benefits of your software or a demonstration live on line.

And of course, DigitalMeeting offers you a cohesive and collaborative business tool when working with other developers regardless of geographical locations or time zones.

What is more, we provide users with regular reviews on the effective use of DigitalMeeting and can offer you advice and training on how your staff can use this simple method to make enormous savings overall.

What else can we tell you?

- It can be uploaded immediately
- There are no set up fees
- Guests use a free phone number
- You pay as you go
- Unquestionable ROI
- You need no new hardware
- You need no new software
- You just need to contact us to start offering DigitalMeeting IMMEDIATELY
