FE Partnerships join DigitalMeeting Licensed Business Partner Programme

technilink iT Ltd owners of DigitalMeeting, the cutting edge audio-web managed communication system has announced the signing of a licensed business partner agreement with FE Partnerships.

Richard Butler, Chief Executive of technilink iT Ltd. said "We are very pleased to welcome FE Partnerships as a Licensed Business Partner of DigitalMeeting. Their established track record of working with public and private sector organisations adds a new dynamic to the business and we look forward to the new opportunities our agreement will bring to our respective companies."

Paul Finney, Director of Business Development for FE Partnerships commented "We are delighted to be partnering with technilink iT Ltd. and we are excited to be bringing the advantages of DigitalMeeting to even more organisations." Mr. Finney added "The current credit crunch makes it more important than ever to control operating costs. DigitalMeeting can deliver immediate savings by minimising travel costs and the staff opportunity costs associated with spending long hours travelling by car, train or airplane."

Notes to Editors:

DigitalMeeting provides an innovative set of audio-web business tools that allows staff to collaborate with each other, their clients or supply chain in real time, wherever they are in the world and without the need to waste time and money travelling sometimes long distances to meetings.

DigitalMeeting is an integrated audio-web service that allows users to hold teleconferences, whilst simultaneously viewing and editing documents via a synchronised web portal. Meetings can be recorded for audit purposes, or so that non-attendees may listen at a time convenient to them. This service can also be used as a training and sales medium via webinars and podcasting. Accessed on a 'pay as you go' basis, subscribers are not subjected to minimum usage contracts, or tie-in periods.

New subscribers can take advantage of a promotional, no obligation offer, which entitles them to 300 free minutes use of DigitalMeeting.
